Genci Odobashi

I am a talented, ambitious, and hardworking individual, adept at handling multiple tasks on a daily basis competently, and at performing very well under pressure. A key strength of mine is communication; building strong relationships with people in order to deliver the best results. Thanks to my ability to learn fast, I have changed paths a few times during my career. Lately, I have come to realize that I have a strong connection with technology, and based on that I have discovered that my ultimate goal and passion are to become a successful web developer.

Projects

Bites n' Booze

TThis is a group project. This app's purpose is to help the user create a dish or drink based on the ingredient that they choose. I handled the frontend and created all the visuals using HTML, CSS, and JS. The data is retrieved through 3rd parties APIs.

CubCare

This is a group project. This app makes it possible for parents and babysitters to connect with each other, and make the best match to babysit their children. My contribution was mostly in the frontend. I created, updated, and styled parts of the components using RactJS and Tailwind library. I also implemented all the picture upload functionality using Firebase storage.
